

Volunteer With CareerSpring

CareerSpring is a non-profit organization dedicated to unlocking the employment potential of first generation and/or low income (FGLI) college students by providing career information, social capital, and job placement services via an online Career Platform. To fulfill our mission, we partner with employers, community organizations, and schools that aspire to help FGLI students and graduates realize their greatest career potential.

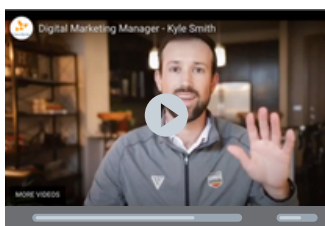

By volunteering with CareerSpring, you'll transform lives with every career video, connection, advising session, or job opportunity you make possible. Below are two ways you can get involved to help us make a difference:

BECOME AN ADVISOR

Your career experience and professional path can be a source of guidance and inspiration for FGLI students. As a volunteer Advisor on CareerSpring's Platform, you will be able to network with and provide advice for FGLI students/graduates who are just starting their careers.

After a short registration process, the Platform allows volunteers to set their availability so that they can connect as little or as much as they want. When you become an Advisor, students (Advisees) can reach out to you for live advisory video conferences via the Platform's online meeting software.

CREATE A CAREER VIDEO

Share your professional story with our students in a short career video. Answer several key questions about how you got into your career, what your work is like, and what advice you have for FGLI college students considering a similar path.

Career videos are uploaded to the CareerSpring Video Library for students to watch and get an idea of what industry/career they may be interested in. For the recording, CareerSpring can set up a meeting to film volunteers virtually or we can send them instructions on how to record themselves.
